- More sewer point repairs will be completed by week's end. Barring inclement weather, areas will be paved. The sewer repair in front of the Library Society building is under consideration for repair next week.
- Next week, electrical conduit ductbank work will begin at the intersection of King and Market Streets working from the west side to the east side of King Street as the job progresses. There will be one lane of traffic open and traffic control in place.
- Electrical ductbank and water main work is ongoing on Horlbeck Alley next week. Parking in the underground garage at #15 Horlbeck Alley will also be impacted and alternate arrangements are being made for residents to park in the City of Charleston Queen Street Garage at 93 Queen Street on the west side of King Street.
- In the two-week look ahead, plans are being finalized to begin the sewer re-lining project.

When the hills are green with spring, we think nothing can be more pleasant and satisfying, but now comes the ripening.

The hills are brooding beneath the summer sun; most of the wild blossoms have come and gone.

The fruit are in many stages of ripening...
